Curriculum Vitae

personal information
Name		Alessandro ACHILLI
E-mail		alessandro.achilli@unica.it
Position		Senior assistant professor (RTD-B)
Brief description		Alessandro Achilli is Senior Assistant Professor (RTD-B) of Slavic Languages and Literatures at the University of Cagliari, where he teaches Russian Language and Literature at both BA and MA level. His research focuses on modern and contemporary literature from the Slavic area, with particular attention to Ukrainian, Russian, and Belarusian poetry, issues of intertextuality, comparative literature, and, more recently, intersections between politics and poetry writing.
		He is also an Adjunct research fellow at Monash University, Melbourne, Australia.
Work experience
(October 2021 -)		Senior Assistant Professor/RTD-B, University of Cagliari
(March 2021 – September 2021)		Research Fellow, "Russian-Language Poetry in Transition" DFG Centre for Advanced Studies, University of Trier, Germany
(July 2017 – November 2020)		Lecturer in Ukrainian Studies, Monash University, Melbourne, Australia. Since then, Adjunct research fellow.
(February 2017 – May 2017)		Adjunct teacher of Ukrainian Literature, University of Milan
(February 2016 – May 2016)		Adjunct teacher of Ukrainian Literature, University of Milan
(September 2015 – December 2015)		Research Fellow, Ukrainian Research Institute, Harvard University Education
(November 2011 – February 2015)		PhD, European and Extra-European Languages, Literatures and Cultures, University of Milan
(September 2006 – May 2010)		MA, Modern Languages and Literatures (Russian, Ukrainian), University of Milan, 110/110 cum laude
(September 2002 – February 2007)		BA, Modern Languages and Literatures (Russian, German, Polish), University of Milan, 110/110 cum laude