

Elisabet Tiselius is associate professor of interpreting studies at Stockholm University. She teaches students in public service, conference and signed language interpreting. Tiselius is a member of AIIC (where she has served on the research committee). She is an active interpreter accredited to the EU-institutions and has a Swedish state authorization in public service interpreting. Her publications cover conference as well as public service interpreting, both spoken and signed language interpreting. She is a co-editor of the Routledge Handbook of Conference Interpreting.

Tiselius is head of the research group Stockholm Process Research in Interpreting and Translation (SPRINT) which focuses on cognitive aspects of interpreting and translation. She is an affiliated member of MC2lab, a member of the management committee of the TREC-network, and the current president of the European Society for Translation Studies. She is also an affiliated researcher to Karolinska Institutet and to Western Norway University of Applied Sciences where she is leader of a work-package of a Norwegian research council funded project about sign language interpreting (DEPICT). She tweets @tulkur