

CURRICULUM VITAE ET STUDIORUM

Roberta BONETTI

The current CV is broken down in three sections:

I. academic activities, scholarly, editorial; II. didactic activities; III. professional activities in extra-academic contexts; IV Institutional activities and academic appointments

My research and professional activities are centered on three thematic axes:

Anthropology of art, with particular reference to the contemporary productions of Western Africa, to the social contexts of production, use and reception in Africa and in the international contexts; anthropology of cultural heritage and new forms of production of 'museums' in the contemporary world; the intertwining relation of design to anthropology.

Applied anthropology; research applied to industrial production and work organizations; situated learning and research action in business contexts.

Anthropology of education, of and in learning contexts, formal and informal alike; ethnographical counselling and anthropology of education; learning process in contexts of social interaction.

For each of these thematic axes I have carried out activities both in academic (publications, organization of scholarly events, seminars and workshops), and didactic contexts (courses, seminars), and in extra-academic projects (national and international projects in collaboration with public and private institutions, exhibitions).

In spite of their being complementary, and parts of a coherent path of research and professional activities, for sake of brevity and clarity, I have them arranged hereunder in two groups (academic and non-academic), and thematically as follows: a. Anthropology, design, art, Africa; b. Anthropology, education, learning processes, industry.

I. ACADEMIC, SCHOLARLY, EDITORIAL ACTIVITIES

Responsibility for research entrusted by qualified public and private institutions

2017-2018

(01.09.2017 to 30.05.2018) Awarding of a public services contract by the Municipality of Scandicci for the realization of the Research-Action 'Sguardi Oltre, Percorsi di Ascolto Attivo di Sé e dell'Altro' within the project La città dei Ragazzi. The research is one of the actions of the Educational Zonal Plan (PEZ) supported by the Region of Tuscany within the programming of the Educational Zonal Conference.

It is in this context that the project 'Sguardi Oltre. Esperienze ai confini del quotidiano', going to operate, with anthropological methods, on prejudices and styles of behavior at risk of prosocial behavior. The workshops have involved the school world, from managers to teachers, from students to parents of them who during the activities have asked to join the activities proposed by the project. As part of the "P.E.Z. AWARD", the project was awarded on October 19, 2018, during the Didacta 2018 fair in Florence (Fortezza da Basso), among the "territorial best practices for school success."

(from 16.01.2017 to 31.05.2017) Assignment Training teachers from the City of Modena of the organization and management of n. 2 modules of the training course entitled "Tessere relazioni umane e nuove trame di incontro. Un approccio antropologico e interculturale alla relazione con le famiglie". The proposed course aimed to initiate, in a participatory manner, a self-conscious, self-reflective and experiential process on the topic of intercultural/interrelational communication, starting from the experience (understood as expert knowledge) of teachers and educators, and not only with regard to relationships with 'foreign' families.

Objectives of the course: to provide tools that facilitate the sharing of experiences and specific cases arising from everyday school and family contexts, to offer multiple representations of reality; to encourage a situated and cooperative knowledge; to connect new perspectives; to create new meeting spaces; to improve skills and mutual understanding of activities in the process of sharing between different professionals; to improve the ability to decentralize. Location: Memo, viale J. Barozzi 172 Modena.

(from 01-09-2016 to 30-05-2017) Awarding of public service contract by the City of Scandicci for the realization of the Research-Action 'Sguardi Oltre, Percorsi di Ascolto Attivo di Sé e dell'Altro' within the project la Città dei Ragazzi. The project, conducted on three levels, pedagogical, teacher training, parental training, aimed to promote research activities for teaching and school training. It took place starting in September 2017 and was articulated over a two-year school period through an anthropological approach to the knowledge of the self and the other. The path has provided for the participatory co-design by different educational subjects involved in the school-family relationship (managers and teachers of the class council on the one hand, parent representatives in class councils and school board on the other), of educational workshops, in the enhancement of the vertical curriculum in continuity from the first to the second cycle of education, and as a 'bridge' action between heterogeneous groups for age group, belonging to different Comprehensive Institutes and High Schools of the municipal territory, and has involved a total of 20 classes. The project has leveraged the Research-Action methodologies for cooperative learning through the use of material culture, the use of technology, and peer education. The structuring of the shared path has also promoted, in the themes developed, the strengthening of disciplinary skills (Italian, history, geography, law, etc.), involving teachers in an integrated process between the workshop activities and ordinary school practice. Also the constant interrelation with parents, called to share the whole process, aimed at a wide participation, on a representative scale of the city reality.

The research was commissioned by the Municipality of Trento and Associazione Gioco degli Specchi, and sponsored by Fondazione Cassa Rurale di Trento. The project was carried out in three phases for each school participating in the initiative: a first phase of meetings between teachers and parents. A second phase of classroom activities with children, and a third public phase in which all parties gave an account of their work to the community.

EVENTS ORGANIZED FOR CULTURAL INNOVATION IN THE FIELDS OF HERITAGE, DESIGN AND INDUSTRY (Selection)

2016 Social Eater is a project aimed at the creation of a social kitchen born from the seminar I led at SID in Padua 'Eating Rules, Social Eaters'. Final product exhibited during Milano Design Week 2016.

The path has addressed the issue of sharing under the educational and social profile: the creation of a kitchen, hacked for the occasion by the students of the school, has allowed to relate environments and places of aggregation, languages of food and social to dissect the perception of the space of the community, the use and usefulness of sharing knowledge, culture and information.

2015 Urban Walls. Illegal Design. Exhibition and Workshop at the third Applied Anthropology conference I organized in Prato. Anthropology as Applied Experience (September to December) Project: Urban Walls. Illegal Design (with Claudio Larcher). Five experimental videos, produced by the students of the Anthropology course held at the Faculty of Arts and Design of the Free University of Bolzano, investigate the urban space of various walls in the city. The videos were made with the aim of reflecting on the meaning of the wall within the city and experimenting with its limits and potential through provocative interventions. The anthropology course in dealing with the themes of heritage and design, had the intent to explore with the students, in an experiential mode, the theoretical content to be followed up with a practical research in the field.

2014/15 (May 2014 - February 2015) Co-design of an innovative LAB (Lineabeta Creative Experience) with LINEABETA spa - Bathroom accessories and complements. Objective: to work on Social Design, making a path of participatory design through a series of "tablestorming". In addition to the company, designers, a prototype designer, an artist and myself as an anthropologist were involved. The collaborative action enriched the site of a series of projects to create a new concept that could help people in the use of the bathroom. My contribution, in addition to the ideation during the working table, was in particular to propose the idea of contemporary urinals accompanied by an educational project: 'A scuola di bagno. Tell me which bathroom are you?'

2011/13 (December 2011 - January 2013) Implementation in the Unicredit network of an innovative way of learning on the job through research actions in the field to understand and evaluate the characteristics and possibilities of learning methods carried out not in the traditional training environment such as classroom teaching. The project activity was completed with the production of documentation and methodological and applicative conclusions of the research carried out, useful for the production and packaging of a common model to be shared and applied in the network and governance structure of the Group.
